Introduction

Certified DevOps Engineer(CDE)

The GSDC governs the Certified DevOps Engineer Certification, which emphasizes the practical implementation of the DevOps framework through various tools.

A DevOps Engineer Certification focuses on continuous development and deployment, software development operations, continuous integration, configuration management automation, and learning multiple tools, including Git, Docker, Jenkins, Nagios, Puppet, Ansible, and Kubernetes. Therefore, the cost of obtaining this DevOps Certification is entirely justified.

Understanding DevOps starts with a culture shift and progresses to include knowledge of duties and various roles, team structures cross-functional, and the Importance of automation for effective DevOps deployment.

Participants in the DevOps Engineer certification program get the opportunity to learn and show their proficiency in the following:

•The recommended approaches for Continuous Development, Continuous Integration, Continuous Testing, Configuration Management, Continuous Deployment, and Continuous Monitoring of software are essential throughout its entire development life cycle.
•Building Continuous Integration and Continuous Delivery pipelines, Hands-on experience with Git, GitHub, Docker, Kubernetes, Puppet, Chef, Ansible, Nagios, etc.
•Solid understanding of the DevOps framework and the value of implementing DevOps.
•Necessary elements to successfully implement DevOps.
•Advocating the DevOps implementation for delivering high business value using automation and cross-functional team.
•A solid comprehension of integrating established frameworks with DevOps.

Certified Learning & Development Professional CLDP

I took the certification course "Certified Learning & Development Professional CLDP" approved by the GSDC - Global Skill Development Council. So grateful to the professional team at the GSDC for this enlightening opportunity; namely, Ruguozeno, for her dedication, responsiveness, and constant support throughout this learning journey. And very special thanks to the amazing trainer and coach Deepak Sharma for the great weekly live sessions which I believe are the highlight of this certification programme. His knowledge, expertise, and outstanding skills have made the course very insightful, engaging, and enjoyable!
